

The State's Fish Interests.

From Fish Commissioner Cary the APPEAL learns that about 130,000 trout eggs are being propagated at the State Hatchery at Sandy Harbor, near Incline, and will soon mature and be ready for distribution. It was thought best to cultivate the eggs there instead of bringing them to the hatchery in this city, for usually a large number of the eggs are destroyed while in transportation.

Mr. Cary says the terrapin which were planted by him some time ago in the Carson river and Washoe lake appear to be thriving well, and there is every encouragement that the experiment will prove a success. In a short time Mr. Cary intends to place about sixty of the toothsome shellback in the Humboldt river. They will be procured in Sacramento by Lieutenant Governor Davis.

It will be remembered that a couple of months ago Mr. Cary ordered a number of eels from Pawtucket, Rhode Island, with which he intended to experiment. They were shipped by express, and on account of the very warm weather died en route at Kansas City. There appears to be no obstacle to the propagation of eels in the waters of this State, and we hope that our Fish Commissioner will make another attempt to secure some with which to experiment.

Scarcity of Water.

For some unaccountable reason the volume of water in the Carson river and city water works has diminished very considerably within the past few days, the city's supply having dropped all at once. Mr. Helm desires the APPEAL to notify consumers to use the water very sparingly. The sprinkling cart, which consumes about 30,000 gallons of water per day, will now be able to sprinkle the streets only once a day. Irrigation will only be permitted on Tuesdays and Fridays. Mr. Helm thinks this condition of affairs will last about two weeks, when the supply will be increased from other sources. In the meantime the strictest economy will have to be observed by all consumers.

The failure of water in the river has also been very sudden and mysterious, causing several of the mills to shut down, and consequently throwing a number of men out of employment. Governor Stevenson says that a few days ago he had to shut down his mill, and within a few hours after doing so there was hardly enough water to wash out the mill.

The Orphans' Home Question.

In another column we publish a communication from the Board of Directors of the Orphans' Home, contradicting the report that the Industrial Department of the institution was closed down indefinitely. The APPEAL, from the source from which it obtained the statement, conclude that it was correct, but now takes pleasure in publishing this contradiction. No able or more earnest workers for the interests of the Home than the present Board can be found, and such false reports as that referred to, which are either circulated without full investigation or for improper motives, do the Board an injustice and cause them and the people unnecessary annoyance.

What Woodburn Says.

Congressman Woodburn departed for San Francisco by way of Lake Tahoe and Truckee Monday morning. He will remain at the Bay a few days and then leave for Washington. He will spend some of the time before Congress meets with his mother in Baltimore. He thinks the next session will be a lively political one, in which the Democrats and Republicans will work tooth and nail for the success of their respective parties at the election in 1888, and say that if the Democratic party cannot be completely shelved with the record it has made the Republicans should give up all hope of ever again getting into power.

The APPEAL is in receipt of a printed copy of the proceedings of the investigation of the charges made against Dr. Bishop, of the Insane Asylum, by Wm. Thompson. It may be interesting reading to some, but would be decidedly out of place in a school room or the family circle.
